

KNOW HOW

We all see it on our dashboard. All those “numbers!” So, what’s with all those numbers that we just breeze over with our eyes and keep on driving! Well, one is that “160” number on our speed odometer. Well, surely none of us “regular driving has had the opportunity to go that fast. Sure, race car drivers have; but not in “the cars we drive!”

So, let's just say designers use "overlapping technologies" in making cars! Thus, that speed odometer we see may be in more cars than ours. Perhaps, we can say "it's just a catch all." Then there are some cars that come close to going that. And overall, those gadgets are all connected and computerized; it's best to say, it's just there. And just think when us senior citizens were learning to drive, only 110 or 120 were on the speed odometer.

Thanks, and have a safe drive...jlb
